The Road Trip

While on a road trip, an elderly couple stopped at a roadside restaurant for lunch. After finishing their meal, they left the restaurant and resumed their trip.

When the husband asked his wife to check something on the map a half-hour later, she suddenly realized she had left her glasses on the table, and demanded he turn back.

By then, to add to the aggravation, they had to travel quite a distance before they could find a place to turn around.

All the way back, the elderly husband became the classic grouchy old man. He fussed and complained, and scolded his wife relentlessly during the entire return drive. The more he chided her, the more agitated he became. He just wouldn't let up for a single minute.

To her relief, they finally arrived at the restaurant. As the woman got out of the car, and hurried inside to retrieve her glasses, the old geezer yelled to her, "While you're in there, you might as well get my hat and the credit card!"

"Food for thought is no substitute for the real thing."

The local District Judge had given the defendant a lecture on the evils of drink. But in view of the fact that this was the first time the man had been drunk and incapable, the case was dismissed on payment of twenty euros costs.

"Now don't let me ever see your face again," said the Justice sternly as the defendant turned to go.

"I'm afraid I can't promise that, sir," said the released man.
 "And why not?"
 "Because I'm the barman at your regular pub."

Back in my day, they hadn't invented electricity we had to watch television by candlelight.

A man in a hurry taking his eight-year-old son to school made a turn at a red light where it was prohibited.

"Uh-oh, I think I just made an illegal turn!" the man said.

"It's okay, Dad," the boy said, "The police car right behind us did the same thing."

Remember: it's "I" before "E" except after "Old MacDonald had a Farm."

George was watching a movie with creepy organ music when he suddenly yelled, "Don't enter that church, you fool!" His wife asked, "What are you watching?" George replied, "Our wedding video!"

A wife asked her husband, "Honey, could you please run to the store and get a carton of milk, and if they have eggs, get a dozen."
 A while later the husband returned with a case of quart milk cartons.
 Staring incredulously at the 12-pack case of milk, his wife asked, "Why the hell did you buy so much milk?"
 Her husband said, "They had eggs."

A man has six children and is very proud of his achievement. He is so proud of himself that he starts calling his wife "Mother of Six" in spite of her objections. One night, they go to a party. The man decides that it's time to go home and wants to find out if his wife is ready to leave as well. He shouts at the top of his voice, 'Shall we go home now Mother of Six?' His wife, finally fed up with her husband, shouts back, "Anytime you're ready, Father of Four!"

The first Starbucks sold 8oz. cups of coffee. Over the years, they have dropped the 8oz. size and have added 12oz., 16oz., 24oz. and 30oz.

One Grande coffee (320 milligrams of caffeine) has four times the amount of caffeine than Red Bull.

Starbucks uses over 93 million gallons of milk per year, which is enough to fill 155 Olympic sized swimming pools.

Santa Fe Springs California wins the prize for the most stores within a 25-mile radius with a total of 560!

There are more calories in the Starbucks cinnamon chip scone than in a McDonald's Quarter Pounder.

There are 87,000 different drink combinations available at Starbucks.

A man joined the priesthood. The order he joined could not speak for seven years. Then they could only say 2 words.
 The first seven years passed and they went into a small room. His 2 word were "too cold".
 The next seven years passed and they took him back into the small room and his 2 words were "bad food".
 The next seven years passed they took him back into the small room and his 2 words were "I quit".
 "Good," they said, "all you have done is complain."

Jails vs Nursing Homes
 Here's the way it should be:

Let's put the seniors in jail and the criminals in nursing homes. This would correct two things in one action:

Seniors would have access to showers, hobbies and walks. They would receive unlimited free prescriptions, dental and medical treatment, wheelchairs, etc. They would receive money instead of having to pay it out. They would have constant video monitoring, so they would be helped instantly if they fell or needed assistance. Bedding would be washed twice a week and all clothing would be ironed and returned to them. A guard would check on them every 20 minutes. All meals and snacks would be brought to them, and they would have family visits in a suite built for that purpose. They would have access to a library, weight/fitness room, spiritual counseling, a pool and education, and free admission to in-house concerts by nationally recognized entertainment artists. Simple clothing -- shoes, slippers, pj's -- and legal aid would be free, upon request. There would be private, secure rooms provided for all with an outdoor exercise yard complete with gardens. Each senior would have a P.C., TV, phone and radio in their room at no cost. They could receive daily phone calls. There would be a board of directors to hear any complaints, and the ACLU would fight for their rights and protection. The guards would have a code of conduct to be strictly adhered to in order to protect the seniors and their families from abuse or neglect.
 As for the criminals, they would receive cold food. They would be left alone and unsupervised, locked in to a cold and uninviting room. They would receive showers once a week. They would live in tiny rooms, for which they would have to pay $5,000 per month. They would have no hope of ever getting out.
 Sounds like justice to me.

"A truly great book should be read in youth, again in maturity, and once more in old age, as a fine building should be seen by morning light, at noon and by moonlight."
 Robertson Davies

A little silver-haired lady calls her neighbor and says,
 "Please come over here and help me.
 I have a killer jigsaw puzzle, and I can't figure out how to get started."
 Her neighbor asks, "What is it supposed to be when it's finished?"
 The little silver haired lady says, "According to the picture on the box, it's a rooster."
 Her neighbor decides to go over and help with the puzzle.
 She lets him in and shows him where she has the puzzle spread all over the table.
 He studies the pieces for a moment, then looks at the box, then turns to her and says,
 "First of all, no matter what we do, we're not going to be able to assemble these pieces into anything resembling a rooster."
 He takes her hand and says, "Secondly, I want you to relax. Let's have a nice cup of tea, and then," he said with a deep sigh
 "Let's put all the Corn Flakes back in the box."

Her minister told an eighty-year-old woman that, at her age, she should be giving some thought to what he called "the hereafter." She said to him, "I think about it many times a day." "Oh, really?" said the minister. "That is very wise."
 "It's not a matter of wisdom," she replied. "It's when I open a drawer or a closet, I ask myself, 'What am I here after?'"

Life doesn't come with a remote. You have to get up and change it yourself!

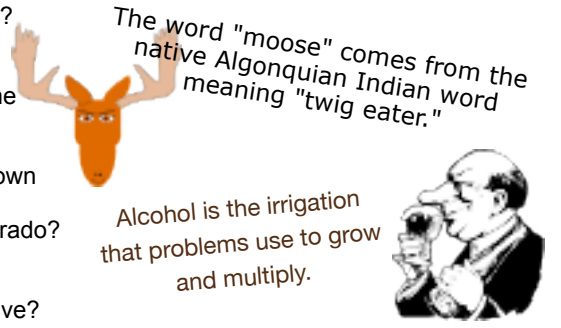

Pneumonoultramicroscopicsilicovolcanoconiosis (45 letters) is the longest word in the English language ("a lung disease caused by the inhalation of very fine silica dust, causing inflammation in the lungs.")

A Boy Scout passed an old woman on a street corner. She said, "Son? If it's not too much trouble, can you see me across the street?" The young man answered, "Sure." He crossed the street alone, looked back at her, and yelled, "Yep, I can see you!"

If I won an award for laziness, I'd send someone to pick it up for me.

Character is what you are. Reputation is what people think you are.

"Dad, I've decided on a career in organized crime." "That's great, son. Private sector or politics?"
