

The New Store in Town . . .

Two businessmen in Florida were sitting down for a break in their soon-to-be new store. As yet, the store wasn't ready, with only a few shelves set up.

One said to the other, 'I bet any minute now some senior is going to walk by, put his face to the window, and ask what we're selling'

No sooner were the words out of his mouth when, sure enough, a curious senior walked to the window, had a peek and in a soft voice asked "What are you sellin' here?"

One of the men replied sarcastically, "We're selling ass-holes".

Without skipping a beat, the old timer said, "You're doing well. Only two left".

My husband David's colleague at a package-processing centre was trapped in a small rest room by a faulty lock. When he was finally discovered, David and another worker were able to open the door with some difficulty. The lock was still jammed, so they blocked the door open while a maintenance worker was called. A bit later, David noticed the door was closed again. He jiggled the doorknob and a voice from inside called, "Get me out!" "Don't worry," David replied, "Maintenance should be sending somebody." "They did," said the voice.

RANDOM TIDBITS

Superglue is so strong that a single square-inch bond can lift a ton of weight.

Superglue doesn't stick to the bottle because it needs moisture to set, and there is no moisture in the bottle.

Cyanoacrylate (superglue) products are a $325-million-a-year industry. Approximately 90 percent of U.S. homes have at least one tube.

During the Vietnam War tubes of superglue were put in U.S. soldiers' first-aid kits to help seal wounds.

Special kinds of superglue are now used in hospitals worldwide, reducing the need for sutures, stitches, and staples.

Superglue is now used in forensic detection. When investigators open a foil packet of ethyl-gel cyanoacrylate, the fumes settle on skin oils left behind in human fingerprints, turning the invisible smears into visible marks.

 Her six-year-old daughter had a lot of questions. Finally, her mother could take no more. "Have you ever heard that curiosity killed the cat?" she asked. "No, Mommy." "Well, there was this cat who was very inquisitive and one day he looked in a big hole, fell in, and died!" Wide-eyed, the little girl whispered, "What was in the hole?"

A drunk staggered up to the hotel reception desk and demanded his room be changed. "But sir," said the clerk, "you have the best room in the hotel". "I insist on another room!!" said the drunk. "Very good, sir. I'll change you from 502 to 555. Would you mind telling me why you don't like 502" asked the clerk? "Well, for one thing" said the drunk, "it's on fire".

The Lie Detector Robot

A father buys a lie detector robot; it slaps people when they lie. He decides to test it out on his son at supper.

"Where were you last night?"

"I was at the library."

"OK, OK," the boy says, rubbing his arm. "I was at Jerry's house."

"Doing what?" asks the mother.

"Watching a movie. Toy Story."

"OK, it was porn!" cried the son.

Two men got out of their cars after they collideded at an intersection. One took a flask from his pocket and said to the other, "Here, maybe you'd like a nip to calm your nerves." "Thanks," he said, and took a long pull from the container. "Here, you have one, too," he added, handing back the whiskey. "Well, I'd rather not," said the first. "At least not until after the police have been here."

Prayer Postions

Three preachers sat discussing the best positions for prayer, while a telephone repairman worked nearby.

"Kneeling is definitely best," claimed one.

"No," another contended. "I get the best results standing with my hands outstretched to Heaven."

"You're both wrong," the third insisted.

"The most effective prayer position is lying prostrate, face down on the floor."

The repairman could contain himself no longer.

"Hey, fellas," he interrupted, "the best prayin' I ever did was hangin' upside down from a telephone pole."
