

Margaret Mitchell, who wrote "Gone With the Wind," never wrote a book before that, and never wrote a book after that. Her original title for the book was "Tomorrow Is Another Day"; her publisher changed it to "Gone With the Wind." The publisher also changed the heroine's name from Pansy O'Hara to Scarlett O'Hara.

Could Swift look into the future? Maybe not, but he was remarkably prescient on at least one fact -- In Gulliver's Travels Jonathan Swift described the two moons of Mars, Phobos and Deimos, giving their exact size and speeds of rotation. He did this more than a hundred years before either moon was discovered.

Two elderly ladies had been friends for many decades. Over the years, they had shared all kinds of activities and adventures. Lately, their activities had been limited to meeting a few times a week to play cards. One day, they were playing cards when one looked at the other and said, "Now don't get mad at me .. I know we've been friends for a long time, but I just can't think of your name! I've thought and thought, but I can't remember it. Please tell me what your name is."

Her friend glared at her. For at least three minutes she just stared and glared at her. Finally she said, "How soon do you need to know?"

Antarctica is 98 percent ice, 2 percent barren rock. The average thickness of the ice sheet is 7,200 feet; this amounts to 90 percent of all the ice and 70 percent of all the fresh water in the world. If the ice cap were to melt, the sea level would rise by an average of 230 feet.

The preacher's Sunday sermon was "Forgive Your Enemies."

He asked how many of the congregation have forgiven their enemies? About half held up their hands. He then repeated his question. Now about 80 % held up their hands.

He then repeated his question once more. All responded, except one elderly lady. "Mrs. Johnson, are you not willing to forgive your enemies?"

"I don't have any."

"Mrs. Johnson that is very unusual. How old are you?"

"Ninety-three," she replied.

"Mrs. Johnson, please come down in front and tell the congregation how a person cannot have an enemy in the world?"

The little sweetheart of a lady tottered down the aisle and said, "I outlived every one of those bitches!"

An Irish priest is driving down to New York and gets stopped for speeding in Connecticut . The state trooper smells alcohol on the priest's breath and then sees an empty wine bottle on the floor of the car.

He says, 'Sir, have you been drinking?' 'Just water,' says the priest.

The trooper says, 'Then why do I smell wine?'

The priest looks at the bottle and says, 'Good Lord! He's done it again!'

Don't mention this to anyone, but the word "gossip" comes directly from God. The Old English word "godsib," a combination of "God" and "sib" (meaning "relative," as in "sibling"), referred to a male or female relative who served as a child's godparent.

Over the centuries, "godsib" expanded in meaning to denote a close friend of either gender, but most often a woman. Intimate friends invariably share secrets, so "gossip" came to mean "a person who spreads trivial news or rumours" and later to denote the information itself.

Through the pitch-black night, the captain sees a light dead ahead on a collision course with his ship. He sends a signal:
 "Change your course ten degrees east."
 The light signals back: "Change yours, ten degrees west."
 Angry, the captain sends: "I'm a Navy captain! Change your course, sir!"
 "I'm a seaman, second class," comes the reply. "Change your course, sir."
 Now the captain is furious. "I'm a battleship! I'm not changing course!"
 There's one last reply. "I'm a lighthouse. Your call."
