A girl says to a salesman, "I'm not sure if I should buy a sweatshirt or a windbreaker." He says, "Well, that depends. Are you gonna sweat, or are you gonna break wind?"

"Hello, Information? I need the number of the Caseway Insurance Company."

"Would you spell that, please?"

"Certainly. C as in sea. A as in aye. S as in sea. E as in eye. W as in why. A as in are. Y as in you."

"Just a minute, sir. I'll connect you with my supervisor."

A blizzard stuck the small town on Saturday night. Sunday morning found the church empty except for one old farmer. The preacher asked, "Do you want me to preach anyway?" The farmer said, "Well, if I went to feed my cattle and only one steer showed up, I'd still feed him." So the minister gave him his best. But when the preacher began his third hour, the farmer raised his hand. "Reverend, if I went to feed my cattle and only one showed up, I wouldn't feed him all my hay!"

If the antonym of "synonym" is "antonym," and the antonym of "antonym" is "synonym," then what's the synonym of "synonym" and the synonym of "antonym?"

"Grandpa, I'm really proud of you," said the modish young lady.

"What's to be proud of?" asked the old man.

The young lady replied, "I noticed that when you sneeze, you've learned to put your hand in front of your mouth."

"Of course," explained Grandpa.

"How else can I catch my teeth???"

The Grand Canyon is the SECOND largest canyon in the world. The Tsangpo Canyon in Tibet is actually deeper and longer than the Grand Canyon.

At 5 P.M. one Halloween afternoon, my dental hygienist realized that she wouldn't make it to the store in time to get snacks for trick-or-treaters. So she took home some free samples from the office supply cabinet. That night she handed out dozens of toothbrushes, toothpaste, and dental floss. The next year, although she had bags of chips and popcorn, not one child came knocking at her door.

I called a company and asked to speak to Bob. The person who answered said, "Bob is on vacation. Would you like to hold?"

1. In October of 1998 Terrence Dickson of Pennsylvania was trying to exit the house he was robbing. He managed to get stuck in the garage, however, and for 8 days he lived off of Pepsi and dog food. He then successfully sued for over half a million dollars.

2. Kathleen Robertson of Austin, Texas won $780,000 after suing for damages when she tripped over a toddler running amok in a store. The strangest part? The toddler was her own son.

3. Brian Delekta, a Michigan high school senior, was completing a work study program at his mother's law office. When she gave him an A+ the school changed his grade to an A because that is the highest grade they recognize. He successfully sued the school to raise his grade to something that didn't exist.

One morning in a posh hotel breakfast room, a guest called over the head waiter. "Good morning, sir! I'd like to order two boiled eggs, one of them so undercooked that it's runny, and the other so overcooked that it's tough.

"I also want some rubbery bacon, burnt toast, and butter that's so cold it's impossible to spread.

"Finally, I'll have a pot of extra-weak coffee, served at room temperature."

The bewildered waiter almost stuttered. "Sir! We cannot serve such an awful breakfast to you here!"

"Why not?" the guest replied. "That's what I got here yesterday!"

Murphy was ready to leave for his regular Saturday golf match when his wife asked, "How come you never play with Tom O'Brien anymore?" Murphy responded, "Would you play with a guy who cheats, swears incessantly, shaves strokes, and never says anything nice about anyone?" "Of course not," she replied. Murphy said, "Well, neither will Tom O'Brien!"

I was in a car dealership a while ago when a large motor home was towed into the garage. The front of the vehicle was in dire need of repair and the whole thing generally looked like it had been an extra in the movie "Twister."
I asked the manager what had happened. He told me that the driver had set the cruise control, then went in back to make a sandwich.

My friend, the manager of a grocery store, nabbed a shoplifter in the act. He was escorting the suspect to the office in the front of the store (near the cash registers), when the shoplifter broke from his grip and tried to run.

After a scuffle, my friend pinned him against the wall and looked up to see a number of surprised customers staring at him.

"Everything's fine, Folks," he reassured them. "This guy just tried to go through the express line with more than ten items."

When I stopped the bus to pick up Chris for preschool, I noticed an older woman hugging him as he left the house. "Is that your grandmother?" I asked.

"Yes," Chris said. "She's come to visit us for Christmas."

"How nice," I said. "Where does she live?"

"At the airport," Chris replied. "Whenever we want her, we just go out there and get her."

A man takes his place in the theatre, but his seat is too far from the stage.

He whispers to the usher, "This is a mystery, and I have to watch a mystery close up. Get me a better seat, and I'll give you a handsome tip."

The usher moves him into the second row, and the man hands the usher a quarter.

The usher looks at the quarter, leans over and whispers, "The wife did it."

"Fault, n. A quality found in abundance in other people, but only rarely in oneself."

Dentist begging the patient: "Could you help me? Could you give out a few of your loudest, most painful screams?"

Patient: "Why? Doc, it isn't all that bad this time."

Dentist: "There are so many people in the waiting room right now and I don't want to miss the 4 o'clock ball game".

A corporate executive received a monthly bill from the law firm that was handling a big case for his company. It included hourly billing for conferences, research, phone calls, and everything but lunch hours. Unhappy as he was, the executive knew that the company would have to pay for each of these services.

Then he noticed one item buried in the middle of the list: FOR CROSSING THE STREET TO TALK TO YOU, THEN DISCOVERING IT WASN'T YOU AFTER ALL -- $125.

St. Bernard of Menthon, who built way stations for tired medieval travellers in the Alps, is the patron saint of mountain climbers. The dog breed was also named for St. Bernard.

A hunch is creativity trying to tell you something.

A friend of mine went to the dentist recently. He commented that it must be tough spending all day with your hands in someone's mouth. He said: "I just think of it as having my hands in their wallet."

An Israeli doctor says: "Medicine in my country is so advanced that we can take a kidney out of one man, put it in another, and have him looking for work in 6 weeks." A British doctor says: "That is nothing; we can take a lung out of one person, put it in another, and have him looking for work in 4 weeks." A Canadian doctor says: "In my country, medicine is so advanced that we can take half a heart out of one person, put it in another, and have them both looking for work in 2 weeks." A Nigerian doctor, not to be outdone, says: "You guys are way behind..... We just took a man with NO brain, made him President, and now the whole country is looking for work."

Madcap comedienne Lucille Ball was kicked out of drama school in New York City when she was 15 because she was too quiet and shy.
