

pelly coffee pot

Aug 4/15

Year 6 #27

"Trust your hunches. They're usually based on facts filed away just below the conscious level."

Most people know that the blue whale is the largest animal in the world. Nevertheless, here is some perspective for you. The blue whale's tongue weighs as much as an adult elephant.

International Cat Day is a full 24 hours of recognition and veneration of one of humanity's oldest and most beloved pets. The festivities were put together for the first time in 2002 by IFAW, the International Fund for Animal Welfare, among other animal rights groups, to celebrate the most popular pet on the planet.

An estimated 500 million cats are thought to be frolicking in neighbours' gardens across the world, which means that most every extended family is bound to have an aunt with more kittens than former husbands, whatever the country or climate.

Rabbits often sleep with their eyes open as a means of defence. If their brain registers movement within their visual range, they will wake up.

On his way out of church after mass, Frank stopped at the door to speak to the minister. "Would it be right," he asked, "for a person to profit from the mistakes of another?"

"Absolutely not!" replied the pastor, disappointed that Frank would even ask such a question.

"In that case," said the young man, "I wonder if you'd consider returning the hundred dollars I paid you to marry my wife and me last July."

The Social Housing Program provides safe and adequate housing to individuals and families in need. This program is intended to serve households with low incomes. The Pelly Housing Authority presently has vacancies. Seniors, families, or individuals are encouraged to apply. The rent for a housing unit is based on 30% of the gross household income. For more information, please contact the manager, Victoria Makohoniuk, at 306-595-4902.

It's for my mother-in-law," explained the mourner at the funeral procession. Tightening the leash, he gestured down at the dog and said, "My Doberman here killed her."

"Gee... That's terrible," commiserated the spectator. "But... Hmmm... Is there anyway you might lend me your dog for a day or so?"

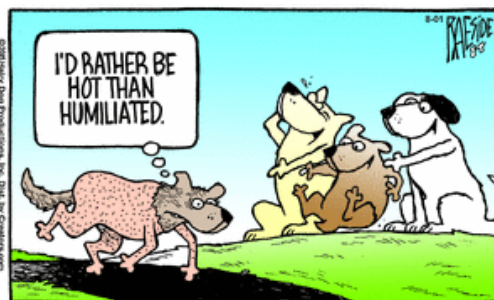

The bereaved son-in-law pointed his thumb over his shoulder and answered, "Get in line."

Events 2015

- Aug 8 - International Day of the Cat
- Aug 12 - Heritage Guild Meeting
- Sep 1 - School begins
- Sept 23, 6:21 A.M. first day of Fall
- Nov 1 - Daylight savings time change
- Dec 25 - is a Friday

"I believe in luck: how else can you explain the success of those you dislike?"

jocund \JAH-kehnd or JO-kehnd\ (adjective) - Happy, light-hearted, pleasant, carefree, cheerful. "Sally would always point out that a jocund home was a good place for children to grow up, so she would encourage everyone to laugh often."

Alot

Always leave a space here.

remember, there's a lot of space in outer space.

Alot is not a word.

You don't write
alittle, abunch, acantaloupe, aporkchop

So don't write alot.

MP Candidates Yorkton-Melville Riding

Conservative - Cathay Wagantall
Green Party - George Wooldridge
Liberal - TBA
NDP - Doug Ottenbreit
Libertarian Party - TBA

A blind man walks into a store with his seeing eye dog. All of a sudden, he picks up the leash and begins swinging the dog over his head. The manager runs up to the man and asks, "What are you doing?!!" The blind man replies, "Just looking around."

There is an often expressed notion that "Xmas" is a relatively new non-religious name / spelling for "Christmas." However, it turns out, this isn't the case at all, at least not originally. The "X" originally indicated the Greek letter "Chi," which is short for the Greek, meaning "Christ." So "Xmas" and "Christmas" were equivalent in every way except their lettering.

A woodpecker's brain is protected by a spongy elastic material between their bill and their skull that holds their brain so tight that it can't move around, which is what keeps it from getting injured while they bang away at a tree, which produced incredible G-forces.

A blond met her friend for lunch but her tooth hurt so much she couldn't eat. Her friend convinced her to see a dentist. The following week, they had lunch again. "So? Does your tooth still hurt?" The blond replied, "I don't know. The dentist kept it."

"Is there anything wrong?" asked bartender of the young, well-dressed customer who sat staring grimly into his drink. "Two months ago my grandfather died and left me one-hundred thousand dollars" said the man. "That doesn't sound like anything to be upset about," said the bartender. "It should happen to me." "Yeah," said the sour young man, "but last month an uncle on my father's side passed away. He left me ninety-five thousand dollars." "So why are you sitting here looking so unhappy?" Asked the bartender.

"This month – so far – not a cent."

The 50-50-90 rule:
Anytime you have a 50-50 chance of getting something right, there's a 90% probability you'll get it wrong.

A couple had a fight after which the wife started packing her belongings. Her husband asked her, 'where are you packing to?' She answered, 'I'm going to my mother.' After a while, the man started packing too. She asked, 'what are you doing, where are you going?' He answered, 'I'm going to my mother.' She asked, 'what happens to the 6 children then?' Her husband answered, 'you're going to your mother, I'm going to my mother, and the children will also have to go to their mother!!'

According to the Legacies of War project, "from 1964 to 1973, the U.S. dropped more than two million tons of ordnance [another word for "explosives"] on Laos during 580,000 bombing missions—equal to a planeload of bombs every 8 minutes, 24-hours a day, for 9 years – making Laos the most heavily bombed country per capita in history.

"The good news is that the U.S. military dropped an estimated 270 million bombs during the war, so there is a lot of scrap to be found. This has had a huge impact on the economy. As Global Post reported in 2010, "villagers turn scrap into tools and utensils — everything from bowls to buckets, boats, spoons, knives, hoes, troughs, ladders, planters, cowbells, stilts and pedestals for satellite dishes."

Whenever my religious friends ask what I'm going to give up for Lent, I always reply, "Self-denial."

Research shows that students who write out their notes on paper actually learn more than those taking notes by typing.

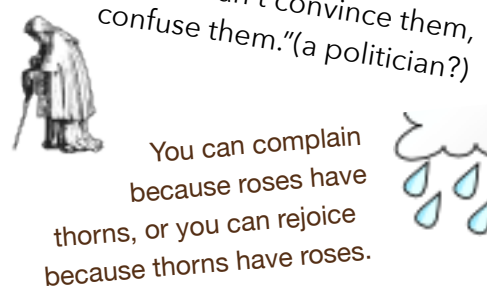

The equal sign ("=") was invented in 1557 by Welsh mathematician Robert Recorde, who was fed up with writing "is equal to" in his equations. He chose the two lines because "no two things can be more equal".

Scurvy was documented as a disease by Hippocrates, and Egyptians have recorded its symptoms as early as 1550 B.C. The knowledge that consuming foods containing vitamin C is a cure for scurvy has been repeatedly rediscovered and forgotten all the way into the early 20th century.

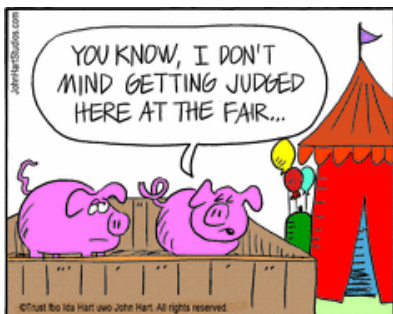

A family was having dinner and the little boy said, "Dad I don't like the holes in the cheese!" Well son, eat the cheese and leave the holes on the side of the plate.

The Studebaker auto company produced a car called the "Dictator" from 1927–1936.

"If you can't convince them, confuse them." (a politician?)

You can complain because roses have thorns, or you can rejoice because thorns have roses.

Give a man a fish and he will eat for a day. Teach a man to fish and he will sit in a boat all day drinking beer.